WORLD'S FAIR.

Newly Elected Directors—Object Lesson in Civil Engineering—The Opening Ceremonies.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The newly-elected directors of the World's Fair met in special session this morning and re-elected President H. N. Higinbotham, Ferd W. Peck and Treasurer A. F. Seeburgerger. W. K. Carlisle, son of Secretary John G. Carlisle, was re-elected attorney.

Americans, Turks, Cingalese, Russians and representatives of other nations, making a motley throng of a couple of thousand or more, gathered in the midway plaisance this morning and watched with interest the work of hoisting the immense iron sections of the Ferris wheel. Two 500 horse-power engines with heavy timber derricks were brought into requisition for the operation. The height to which the sections were hoisted was nearly 200 feet. The big fifty-ton axle was hoisted into place several days ago, and so far the critical task of placing the sections of the wheel in position has been accomplished without accident. Hundreds of engineers were among the spectators today, the operation being a kind of object lesson in civil engineering.

Whether or not the masses will be afforded an opportunity of participating in the opening of the World's Columbian exposition and of hearing Grover Cleveland's speech will be finally decided by the council of administration to-day. The committee on ceremonies is divided on the point, one faction favoring the holding of the exercises in Music or Festival hall, with some 2,500 special guests as an audience, while the other believes that the open air is good enough for the affair, so that all the visitors to the park on that eventful day may be counted as the audience. The blue-bloods, who favor exclusiveness, argue that if the weather is inclement the President could not be expected to speak in the open air, but their opponents contend that if he could stand for six or seven hours in a blizzard as he did on inauguration day in Washington without experiencing any personal discomfort, he would not be very likely to object to standing for fifteen minutes on a platform in Jackson Park, even should the breeze from Lake Michigan be a trifle raw. If the people who want to make a star chamber of the opening exercises carry their way it is not unlikely that the other side will ask the President whether he would not prefer to talk to 100,000 people than to a couple of thousand.

HAWAII RELIEVED.

Americans Chagrined Over the Hauling Down of the Stars and Stripes.

The Provisional Government Able to Maintain Itself—The Chief Danger Japanese Interference.

HONOLULU, H. I., April 6.—Probably no more distasteful task ever fell to the lot of an American seaman than was imposed upon Lieut. Draper, of the U. S. marine corps of the Boston, who has been stationed at the Government house since the Provisional Government assumed power, when on April 1, in the presence of a crowd numbering probably 2,000 persons, he blew the notes of retreat from his bugle and "old glory" sank from sight of the throng and was replaced by the colors of the Hawaiian monarchy, which still remains the flag of this land. The report that Commissioner Blount would order the American flag down and the protectorate abolished got abroad on the night of March 31, preceding the day of the occurrence, but it did not become general. It created at first among the American party a feeling of consternation not altogether unmixed with indignation. This was due to the fact, perhaps, that Blount has maintained a Chinese wall about the purposes of his mission here and has satisfied neither side as to whether he came as envoy to investigate or as minister to negotiate in a matter of vital importance to them.

On the afternoon of March 31 the commissioner held a lengthy and secret conference with President Dole and the ministry, at which he notified them of his intention to declare off the protectorate established by Minister Stevens on February 1. The Provisional Government, though somewhat reluctantly, acquiesced in the commissioner's decision, and prepared to order out their forces to maintain peace and order, which had continued almost unbroken during the protectorate. At 9 o'clock on the morning of April 1, President Dole and his cabinet visited the barracks and inspected the men under arms. At 10 o'clock companies A, B, C, and D of the volunteers assembled at the drill shed, making with the regulars about 400 men in all. The hour for the hauling down of the American flag had been fixed for 11 o'clock. As early as 8 o'clock in the morning, however, the streets had begun to fill, the street corners being thronged with knots of white residents, who discussed the outlook for the action of the American commissioner.

Those residents who were inclined to support the commissioner through their opinion of his good intentions quoted constitutional and international law to sustain their contention that the flag had ultimately to come down, and the upshot of the argument was the mutual assumption and assertion of the idea that the Provisional Government could sustain itself anyhow. On the faces of the American residents were looks of chagrin, while a broad grin overspread the faces of many natives. A majority of onlookers, however, preserved a stolid silence. Just before the minute hand of the clock in the tower reached the hour of 11 the regular troops of the Provisional Government, under command of Capt. John Good, marched back smartly into the inclosure before the Government building, and were ordered into line on the left of the entrance. Following them came Company A, of the volunteers, Capt. Ziegler, who stationed themselves on the right of the entrance. Immediately in the rear came a battery of Company D, Capt. W. C. Wilder, jr., with one gattling gun and two Hotchkiss field pieces, which were placed in position to silence hostile demonstration should any occur. Company B, Capt. Gunn, of the volunteers, was left in charge of the barracks, and Company C was stationed about the palace. The Provisional Government forces were all under the command of Col. J. H. Sopor and his field officers, Lieut.-Col. Fisher and Major McLeod. Inside the Government yard were President Dole and the members of his cabinet, Chief Justice Judd and other officials, officers from naval vessels in the harbor, prominent residents and representatives of the press.

There was a sudden hush of the throng as Lieut. Draper, U.S.M.C., facing the government building, raised his bugle and sounded the call in clear and distinct notes that were heard at some distance. Drawn by unseen agencies the flag sank from sight and a minute later the Hawaiian emblem was hoisted to its place. The ceremony was complete. Not a cheer and scarce a sound accompanied the transformation. Some of the Mohican's officers, as they turned slowly away, said that while the withdrawal of the flag might be the proper thing in international law, they personally felt as if "we had no right to be here and witness the act." Company A, Capt. Ziegler, was marched into the hallway of the building, together with the Gatling gun and field pieces, and were stationed at various entrances. The other troops were marched to the barracks. Lieut. Draper and his squad of marines then proceeded to Camp Boston, where they joined the battalion under Lieut. Laird, which, under orders from Admiral Skerritt, evacuated the quarters they had held so long, marched to the boat landing and embarked to go aboard the Boston and remain indefinitely. Thus ended another episode in Hawaiian history.

As the crowd dispersed from Palace square it was remarked by many whites with surprise that no demonstration of any kind had been made when the Hawaiian flag was raised beyond the "present arms" of the provisional troops. It was afterwards ascertained that the Queen had requested some of her people to instruct the natives to make no outburst on the occasion. Commissioner Blount remains a good deal as an American sphinx to a majority of the people here. He is a good questioner, but is not so ready in imparting information. The members of the Provisional Government called on Commissioner Blount in a body on April 3, returning his official visit of March 30, when he was introduced by Minister Stevens and presented his credentials. The conference at Blount's cottage lasted over an hour. Attorney General Smith, in speaking of it, said while the commissioner gave them no direct assurance of any kind beyond that the United States would allow no foreign interference here, the Government was well pleased with the manner of the commissioner, and did not think their interests would suffer at his hands. President Dole said he was satisfied that Mr. Blount was proceeding in the proper manner, and that he would regard it as hurtful to Hawaiian interests to have the question made a partisan political one in the United States. The Provisional Government was strong enough to maintain itself against any internal disturbance. The chief danger to be apprehended here is Japanese interference, either in behalf of or at the application of Japanese subjects or the Hawaiians themselves.

Minister Stevens, Commissioner Blount and Admiral Skerritt consulted over the matter, and, it is stated, agreed that Japanese interference would be an act of hostility to the United States, and American interests demanded that such be repealed. No hostile demonstration, however, has been made by any party up to this writing. So many rumors have been circulated regarding the intentions of the Mikado's representatives that the officers of the Naniwa and Consul Fugii have been led to make denials of the reports. Consul Fugii, in a newspaper interview, denied that he had received a communication from Commissioner Blount regarding the attitude of the United States and claimed that there was no foundation for the report that his government would interfere in Hawaiian affairs. The monthly pension of $1,250 paid Queen Liliuokalani by the Provisional Government has been the subject of much debate lately, and in the council of March 31, J. A. McCandless offered a resolution to the effect that she be paid $500 per month, so long as she in good faith carries out certain conditions and restrictions relating to political matters, which would be prescribed by the Executive and Advisory Council. The resolution was considered in Executive session and it was decided to postpone further payment until the Queen's conduct, in regard to political interference, became apparent.

Several official changes have been made recently. A. S. Cleghorn, father of Princess Kaiulani, retires from the collectorship of customs. His successor is not yet named. J. Norton Oat succeeds Walter Hill as postmaster general, the latter having been sent to the insane asylum, his mind suffering from the responsibilities in connection with the postal savings bank. The discovery on April 3 that over 200 tins of opium had been stolen from the strong room of the police station by unknown parties, was followed by the disclosure that the crown worn by King Kalakaua and which was kept in a leather trunk in the chamberlain's office on the basement floor of the palace, had been robbed of its diamonds and jewels, valued at $5,000.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Up to the hour of closing the Department of State said that no information had been received there regarding the action of Commissioner Blount in ordering the U.S. flag to be removed from the Government buildings in Honolulu. This, at least, was understood to be the case; but it was noted that the officers of the Navy Department, who usually handle the State Department's cable messages, were very busily engaged. In the course of the afternoon Mr Carter, the annexation commissioner from Hawaii had an interview with Secretary Gresham, which he said was "quite satisfactory." He reiterated his statement of this morning that the removal of the flag was due to the condition of affairs in Honolulu, which no longer warranted its floating over the Government building. "The Provisional Government ought to sustain itself," he said, "I am not at all discouraged over the situation, and believe we shall come out all right in the end." That this is Mr. Carter's sincere belief is borne out by the fact that he is arranging to make a tour of the South to investigate the subject of negro labor and the probabilities of securing a supply from that section of the country for Hawaii. He says, in explanation of this trip, that the knowledge is necessary to this government and to the people of the Island, for, if annexation with the United States is consummated, the contract by which Chinese and Japanese laborers for the sugar and rice plantations of Hawaii are secured must be abandoned, and Southern negro labor will be the most available substitute.

HOME RULE.

Continuation of the Discussion in the Imperial Parliament by Hon. Mr. Asquith.

Michael Davitt's Position—A Member Called to Order by the Speaker.

LONDON, April 14.—In the House of Commons to-day, Rt. Hon. Mr. Gladstone intimated a desire to close the debate on the second reading of the bill on Tuesday next. Rt. Hon. Mr. Balfour protested against such an early termination of the discussion. He said that Rt. Hon. G. W. Goschen, exchancellor of the exchequer; Lord Randolph Churchill, Sir Henry James and other prominent Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists, had not had an opportunity to speak on the subject of the second reading. Mr. Balfour then suggested Friday next as a reasonable date for closing the debate. Home Secretary Asquith delivered an earnest address in behalf of the bill, which was listened to with considerable interest.

While Mr. Asquith was commenting upon the conversion to constitutional Home Rule of Michael Davitt, "once a conspirator and rebel," a dozen or more Irish members, suddenly rising, called the Speaker's attention to an epithet used by Lord Cranbourne. Daniel Crilly, who was allowed to speak for his colleagues, in passionate tones charged Lord Cranbourne with calling Michael Davitt a murderer.

Amidst cries of "withdraw!" "apologize!" etc., the Speaker rose and called for order. "If the expression was used," he said, "it must be withdrawn by the gentleman who used it."

Lord Cranbourne thereupon made an odd apology. "I said nothing," he said, "but what was true. I quite admit that the expression escaped me, but it was not intended for the ear of the House."

Mr. Asquith, continuing, evoked a loud burst of Irish cheers by remarking that the incident which had just occurred showed how scanty was the knowledge of Irish history and Irish leaders possessed by some members of the Opposition.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Statue of Sir John Macdonald for the Parliament Grounds—World's Fair Arrangements.

Tribute to Darcy McGee—B. C. Overlooked—John White's Company Incorporated.

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, April 14.—Tenders inviting artists to submit models for a statue to Sir John Macdonald, to be erected on the Parliament grounds, Ottawa, will be called for in a few days. The statue is to be of bronze, nine feet high, the models to be one-fourth that size. Artists whose model is accepted will receive a premium of $500, the next in order of merit $300, and the next $200.

Mr. Larke, World's Fair commissioner, is here from Chicago. He says the Canadian department is better advanced than that of other countries. The fair cannot possibly be in readiness by May 1. About thirty officials have been appointed on the Canadian staff of the World's Fair, every province except British Columbia being represented.

Judge McCreight arrived here from England to-day, his health being greatly improved. He proceeds to British Columbia shortly.

The newspapers are urging a national tribute to Darcy McGee.

Sam Hughes, M.P., who invented a new ventilator for railway and street cars, has received a large sum for his patent.

The deposits in the Government Savings Banks for March exceed the withdrawals by $3,000.

John White, ex-M.P., G. Boswell and others have been incorporated as the Toronto and British Columbia Lumber Co., Ltd., with a capital of $1,000,000.

The Nanaimo Infantry Company, which drills at local headquarters, will be inspected October 7.

BEHRING SEA.

Proceedings of the Arbitrators—Counsel Carter Contends for Search and Seizure.

The U. S. Decline to Assume the Responsibility of Reporting the Proceedings.

PARIS, April 14.—Mr. Carter, counsel for the United States, continued his address to-day before the Behring Sea court of arbitration. He further discussed the law governing the tribunal and likened unrestricted destruction of seals to pelagic piracy. He devoted some time to discussing the original rights of Russia in Behring Sea, which he claimed were founded on the right of discovery of the waters by Russian navigators, whose achievements Mr. Carter related and delineated to the court with the assistance of a large map exhibited on the wall, and which embraced a description of Behring Sea and adjoining regions. He contended that practically no limit of protection existed at present, and that seizures could not be effected. The three-mile limit, he said, was not observed as absolutely in time of peace as in time of war. When necessary for the protection of the sealing industry, he maintained that the search and seizure of vessels were justified. He proceeded to quote from the decision of Chief Justice Marshall to the effect that the right of seizure and search was not limited to three miles. Mr. Carter said he had no doubt that Great Britain admitted this theory.

Sir Charles Russell, counsel for Great Britain, said that Britain had a contrary opinion.

Mr. Carter replied that in that case the judgment of Chief Justice Cockburn must be upset, as he upheld the theory referred to.

After further argument the court adjourned until Tuesday. Hereafter the stenographic reporting of the proceedings of the court will devolve upon Great Britain alone, the United States declining to share the responsibility.

LONDON, April 14.—In response to questions in the House of Commons this evening, Sir Edward Gray, Parliamentary Secretary to the Foreign Office, said that the stenographic report of the proceedings of the Behring Sea court of arbitration bore no official character; but was simply for the convenience of the arbitrators and the counsel. He added that only the proceedings formally recorded in the protocols would be presented to Parliament.

CABLE NEWS.

The Command at Aldershot.

LONDON, April 14.—It is now pretty well settled that the Duke of Connaught will take up the duties of the Aldershot command on Oct. 1. Since he became major-general twelve years ago his promotion has gone on by strict regularity, as it was his particular wish that it should. The manœuvres are to come off this year in September. There will be a concentration of some 32,000 troops. General Sir Evellyn Wood is taking a great interest in the work of preparation.

The Bedford Estate.

LONDON, April 14.—If the tale that the Duke of Bedford died intestate be true, the Duchess will profit very largely, and it will be almost impossible to prove what are and what are not heirlooms. The Russell jewels are not very valuable, the only ones of note being some ancient pearls and a fine amethyst necklace. The Dukes of Bedford possess, like the Queen, a complete service of gold. When the present Duke's father entertained Royalty in London, this was brought from Woburn in the custody of a small army of servants.

Irish Faction Squabbles.

LONDON, April 14.—Despite all that has been said to the contrary, those who are well informed state that anti-Parnellites have not made it up after the squabbles over the organ of their faction. The hatred of Mr. Healy is as strong as ever, and the animosity of his few supporters to his many opponents is as bitter as ever. Mr. Blake and Mr. Davitt are said to be weary of these bickerings. The latter is tiring of the role of peace maker, and may take the offer of an Australian trip to restore his health, which has been bad all through the session, and Mr. Blake is believed to mean to carry out his intention of returning to Canada sooner than he expected.

Socialist Demonstrations in Holland.

AMSTERDAM, April 14.—The Socialists in this city have recently been making nightly attempts to hold a demonstration in front of the Royal Palace. Night after night their plans have been frustrated by the police, but they succeeded in gathering in force this evening while a reception was being held in the palace. The Socialists were ordered by the police to disperse, but they refused to move. The police then charged and scattered the crowd with drawn swords. Several persons were wounded.

The Cotton Industry.

MONTREAL, April 14.—At the annual meeting of the Dominion Cotton Mills Co., held here yesterday, the statement showed the value of the company's output was $320,000. The company now owns eleven mills, ten of which are in operation.

Guilty of Wife Murder.

SANDWICH, April 14.—The trial of Anderson Veney, at the assizes, who murdered his wife in September last at Amherstburg, took up the whole day, the jury bringing in a verdict of guilty and recommending him to mercy. The judge passed sentence that he be hanged on May 18 next, and stated that the papers would be sent to the Government for consideration.

MONTREAL, April 14.—Rev. J. B. Silcox, of Oakland, Cal., has accepted a call to Emanuel Congregational church here.

TORONTO, April 14.—W. R. Meredith was the principal speaker at the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative club banquet last night. Many members of the Opposition in the Legislature were present, besides a host of other guests.

MONTREAL, April 14.—David Preston, mechanical superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway works in Montreal, died yesterday from blood poisoning, produced by the use of a solution applied to a corn. He was over sixty years of age.

THE BELGIAN RIOTS.

Fighting Still Continues—Great Disquiet Generally Manifested—More Arrests Made.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—The police made an attempt this evening to disperse an enormous crowd outside the People's Hall. The crowd resisted stubbornly, and many workmen were wounded. Great crowds afterwards gathered in various parts of the city. Tradesmen became panic-stricken and closed their shops. Mounted gens d'armes made repeated charges in the crowds on front of the Town Hall and old Coin Exchange. Many people were seriously injured by being trampled under the horses' feet. A mob in the Rue de Laviolette extinguished all the street lamps and attacked the police in the dark. A number of shots were exchanged and some blood was shed. Several newspapers have been compelled to suspend publication because their compositors have joined the strikers. Most of the theatres have closed their doors. The entire civic guard has been ordered under arms and the regular troops are confined to their barracks in readiness for any emergency. A feeling of dread prevails everywhere. It is somewhat lessened, however, by the belief that the rioters would have no chance against an armed force. Reports of disorders continue to come in from the provinces. A veritable battle was fought in Louvain to-day. The gens d'armes became powerless to cope with the strikers, and the authorities had to call on the troops to preserve order. The Knights of Labor of Charlerois have ordered an immediate general strike. During the rioting in one of the streets of this city to-night, the occupants of a certain wine shop pelted the gens d'armes ordered to arrest the inmates, who forced an entrance into the shop, dealing out blows indiscriminately with their rifles, while other gens d'armes stood at the door and struck with their swords those who tried to escape; many of the inmates received serious wounds and nine were taken to the hospital. A despatch received this evening from Liege says that the strike there has ended and that all the mines are not fully manned. A desperate encounter took place to-night between strikers and the police at Wasmuet near Mons. Twenty-seven of the strikers were arrested.

CONSERVATIVE DEMONSTRATION.

The Macdonald Club of Kingston Addressed by Members of the Cabinet.

KINGSTON, April 14.—A demonstration was held by the Macdonald club last night. Among the speakers were Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. John Costigan, Hon T. M. Daly and the Controller of Inland Revenue. Mr. Bowell dealt with Dalton McCarthy at some length, charging him with forsaking his party, and stating that he could not believe Sir John Macdonald told Mr. McCarthy that he was under French domination and that he must get relief.

WESTMINSTER.

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 14.—It is reported in fishing circles that the tug Velos has changed hands, Alex. Ewen being her new owner.

Provincial Constable Calbeck arrived today from Cortez Island with a crazy man named David Jones, for the asylum.

It is understood that the Custom house authorities will in future stop the Seattle Mercury coming into the Province, on the ground that it is indecent literature.

Another burn-out occurred this afternoon at the Canadian Pacific Telegraph office. One relay was destroyed and a new switchboard badly damaged. The cause was a tramway wire crossing.

Old-timers are more convinced than ever that the coming season will see unusually high water in the Fraser river, some even going so far as to predict that the 1882 high water mark will be reached.

The gale last night was particularly severe, and the few fishermen who remained out had rough and unpleasant experiences. Beyond a few signs being blown down, no damage occurred in this city.

A Royal City branch of the Young Men's Institute was organized this evening.

H. Abbott, general superintendent of the C.P.R., has caused to be distributed notices to the effect that he will pay $50 for the recovery of the body of Stephen White, the locomotive engineer, drowned in the Fraser at Sea Bird Bluff on March 30. There seems to be little prospect of recovering the bodies of either White or Pushee.

In the District Court, this morning, the case of Alfred Peen, charged with assaulting J. Wren at the Mission on Monday, was continued. The hearing occupied the whole morning and a large number of witnesses were examined, the charge being finally dismissed. Both parties were bound over to keep the peace for six months.

Provincial Constable Marquette came down from Mission last evening, having in custody J. B. Sim, who had been arrested on the charge of passing a counterfeit $2 United States note in the hotel at that place on Monday last. Another man named J. McCambridge, who was with Sim at the time, is also wanted on the same charge, but, hearing that his companion had been arrested, fled to the United States. This morning Sim was brought up in the District court and remanded for a week in order that witnesses be brought from the Mission.

James McNulty, one of the few forty-niners who remain in British Columbia, crossed the big divide at St. Mary's yesterday, and was buried this morning. Though at one time a man of powerful physique, McNulty's health had been badly shattered in late years, and disease of the lungs finally carried him off. James McNulty was a native of Ireland, and came to California in 1849 with the great rush of gold seekers. He mined in various parts of the Golden State with varying success, and lived for a time in San Francisco, where he gained fame as a prize-fighter, and was the acknowledged champion of the Pacific Coast. When the news reached California in 1858 that gold had been found in British Columbia, McNulty joined the stream of miners who made their way North. He went to Cariboo, where he remained for many years and finally came to Westminster. McNulty was never lucky, his "strikes" were always small. He was 76 years of age.

During the gale last night the frame of the new Pacific Coast cannery at Steveston, just erected, was blown down. No other damage was reported.

The snow fall in the Rocky mountains along the line of the Canadian Pacific railway during the winter has been thirty-nine feet, which is only ten inches short of the unprecedented fall during the winter of 1885. The depth at present is given at thirteen feet on the level, and this is packed so hard as to bear the weight of a horse. Notwithstanding this great snow fall the Canadian Pacific railway line never was blocked beyond a few hours at a time, and much more trouble was experienced in dealing with the comparatively trifling fall on the prairie section.

NANAIMO.

Robert Dunn, underground manager of the East Wellington colliery, died this morning after a brief illness. The deceased was a native of Scotland and was aged 43. He was a widower and leaves three little children. Deceased had been in the employ of the East Wellington company since it first started, eleven years ago, when he sank the first shaft. Deceased was very popular and a thoroughly estimable man. He will be a great loss to the community generally, and particularly to the company. The funeral takes place on Sunday afternoon, at which the members of the Masonic lodges and Ancient Order of United Workmen will be present.

John Peace was this afternoon sentenced to ten months impaisoment for supplying liquor to three Indians last week, the result being that one of the number was drowned whilst intoxicated.

Sailed: Bark Detroit; steamer Costa Rica.

DUNCAN'S.

DUNCAN'S, April 14.—C. Dobson went down to Victoria on Tuesday last and returned the following day.

A. C. Fraser, Cowichan lake, travelled to Victoria on Wednesday, and H. J. Hughitt returned from the Capital on the same day.

Sheriff S. Drake, from Nanaimo, paid a visit to the neighborhood on Wednesday and left by Thursday morning's train.

Lieut.-Col. Andrew, C. P. Haggard and Mrs. Haggard drove to Cowichan lake on Tuesday and are at Price & Jaynes' Lakeside hotel.

Indian Agent Lomas returned from and Miss Drake journeyed to Victoria on Thursday.

A Quamichan Indian named Modiste, who was drunk and quarrelsome near Mr. A. Keating's residence on Wednesday, after a night's reflection in the cells was brought up to-day at the court house before H. O. Wellburn and F. H. Maitland Dougall, J. P's. He plead guilty and was fined $30 and costs.

The funeral of Thomas Smith, an old and much respected pioneer of Cowichan, who died on Monday last, took place at St. Peter's church, Quamichan, yesterday. The pallbearers were six old settlers, viz: R. McLay, B. Dobson, J. Nelson, P. McLennan, W. J. Shearing and W. Rivers, sr.

James Dally went down on this morning's train.

The performance of "The Rivals" was witnessed last night by a large audience, who manifested their interest and enthusiastic appreciation at each fall of the curtain. Miss G. Hadwin, as Mrs. Malaprop, bore off the principal honors, and perhaps Dr. Watson, as Sir Anthony Absolute, was first among the male actors. The impersonations of both were most artistic and clever. Miss Jaynes as Lydia Languish, and Mr. Musgrave as Jack Absolute both looked and did their parts to perfection. Mr. H. Harris as Bob Acres and Mr. J. Dwyer as Sir Lucius O'Trigger were capital whenever they met on the boards. Mr. Matthews, as Faulkland, made the most of a difficult part, and Miss Wilson's Julia was all that could be desired. Miss Lomas, as Lucy, showed she was capable of taking a more prominent position with effect, all her work being thoroughly well done; and of Mr. Hadwin, who sustained admirably the parts of Coachman and David, the same may be said. Mr. Eustace Leakey, as Fag, was far above the average as a performer of a subordinate part. The curtain fell about 10 p.m. amid a perfect storm of applause. A dance, which was kept up well into the small hours, concluded the evening.

ALBERNI.

ALBERNI, April 11.—Occasional showers have broken the bright spring weather during last week after the snow flurries of the previous week. Vegetation is showing signs of life.

The Maude arrived on the 3rd and sailed on the 4th. She carries a new captain, has a fresh coat of paint and seems none the worse for her late mishaps.

There was another whiskey case up before the justice of the peace, but the accused Indian did not put in his appearance. Drunkenness among the Indians and whites has increased of late.

A grant of $1,400, for telegraphic connection between Alberni and the Nanaimo-Comox line, is given in the Dominion supplementary estimates. This is much needed and it is desirable that a better mail service be soon given. The annual meeting for distributing the Provincial grant for roads in the district will be held on the 15th of April in the court house.

Rev. D. A. McRae and Mr. F. Young, of Nanaimo, have been spending a few days in town, seeing the sights and admiring the beauties of Alberni. Such is their admiration that they have resolved, if possible, to spend a few weeks in the valley during the coming summer.

On Sunday Rev. D. A. McRae preached in the Presbyterian church, giving a very interesting discourse on Ex., xviii, 17, his subject being "Common Sense." By authority of the Presbytery of Vancouver Island, Rev. K. J. Adamson organized the home mission station into a regular congregation of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, to be known as St. Andrew's church of Alberni. Messrs. James Thompson and Henry Hill, elders elect, were then ordained by prayer, Rev. D. A. McRae leading. As the afternoon was fine, a large congregation was assembled. A devotional meeting was held in the house of Mr. James Thompson in the evening, which was also well attended. On Monday evening, the ladies gave a tea in the sessions room of the church, which was of the usual enjoyable character. This was followed by an able and instructive lecture by the Rev. D. A. McRae of Nanaimo, on "How to live long and enjoy life," devoting his attention chiefly to the physical side of life. He received the hearty thanks of the people, and a good collection was given for the building fund of St. Andrew's church, Alberni, which yet lacks $300 of meeting all expenses. The annual congregational meeting followed the lecture, at which the resignation of Mr. G. A. Huff as secretary-treasurer was accepted with the thanks of the congregation for his valuable services since the mission was begun, some seven years ago. The appointment of his successor was left to the board of managers, to whom the following members were elected: G. A. Huff (re-elected), Ed. Gill and Kennith McHenyis. These events mark a decided advance in the cause of Christ in Alberni.

A meeting will be held on Saturday, the 15, to arrange for the Queen's Birthday celebration. After that a meeting of the settlers will be held to arrange how the road appropriation money is to be divided; this is always a stormy meeting. It is a great pity the Government cannot arrange beforehand how much each settler is to have, it would save about three hours hard talk.

A ball will take place in the Court-house after the road meeting, probably the last of the series this season.

The ranchers are getting their crops well in during the fine spell.

The trail to China creek mines is now in hand—$200 having been granted by the Government.

KASLO CITY

THE LEADING TOWN

OF WEST KOOTENAY, B. C.

The Growth of Kaslo during the Past Year has been one of Continued Advancement.

Everyone is now well acquainted with the wonderful strides which have been made by Kaslo City during the first year of its existence. One year ago there was scarcely a building or clearing on the Townsite. To-day there are many hundreds of Houses, Substantial Business Blocks, Sawmills, Wide and Well Graded Streets and Sidewalks, Roads and Trails to the Mines, and First-Class Transportation Facilities.

It Is the Busiest Town in Kootenay,

And it has the Brightest Future in store, for it is the Centre of the Richest Silver Mining Region of the Continent. A Railway is now under construction to the Famous Mines of the Slocan, and it is the only point in Kootenay from which ore is being shipped in quantity.

Read what that well-known and energetic mining man, J. F. Wardner, says of the Mines tributary to Kaslo.

PRODUCTION FOR THREE YEARS.

I estimate the following tonnage as the ability of the following Mines:

	Tons		Tons
Noble Five Group	50,000	Ruby Silver	25,000
Rico	50,000	Alice	25,000
Washington	50,000	Mountain Chief	25,000
Wonderful	50,000	Idaho	25,000
Freddie Lee	50,000	Alamo	25,000
Blue Bird	50,000	Great Western	25,000
Utica Consolidated	50,000	Jackson	25,000
Slocan Star	50,000	Wellington	25,000
Dardanelles Group	50,000	Cape Consolidated	10,000
Lucky Jim	25,000	Best	10,000
Reed & Robinson	25,000	Storemount	10,000
Big Bertha	25,000
Slocan Boy	25,000	Total	780,000

Any discrepancies or short-comings in tonnage will be fully made up by the Great Undiscovered. This estimate is reasonable, when we consider that in order to produce 25,000 tons of this kind of ore in three years we only have to displace five cubic feet per day. Kaslo has no rival for this business. A railroad from the nearest point on the Canadian Pacific Railroad to the great group of producers would be sixty-one (61) miles long. A railroad from Kaslo to the great group of producers will be twenty-four (24) miles long, with a grade averaging less than 2 per cent. The construction of this railroad is assured.

J. F. WARDNER.

Those who invested in Kaslo a year ago in many cases have made a thousand per cent. on their investment. Those who invest now will do equally as well, for the forces are at work which will build it into a city of many thousands of people.

THE "QUADRA" ARRIVES.

Extensive Preparations for War Nipped In the Bud by the Expedition.

Chief Pootlas and Others Taken In Charge—A New Kitkatlah Chief.

The steamer Quadra arrived in Victoria yesterday about noon, after having been away sixteen days. The entire party who made the trip returned in good health, and reported having had a very pleasant time. The three chiefs who were arrested for persisting in stirring up trouble in their tribes were not brought down, as it was thought best to send them to Port Simpson. The most important of the trio was Pootlas, the head chief of the entire O-Wee-Kano tribe, and probably one of the most influential men among the West Coast Indians. He and his friend Gassy Charley, a mighty jawsmith, had their headquarters at River's Inlet. Pootlas lost a son in the wreck of the canoe last year, and has been very active in stirring up trouble eversince. The third man, a Bella Bella chief named Charley, is also the head man of his tribe. He, too, has been very bitter and energetic in his efforts to get up a combination to wipe the entire Kitkatlah tribe out of existence. Though he was taken in the Quadra and allowed to thoroughly examine both Sorrow Island and Euklu island, he remained obstinate, and on the return to Bella Bella tried to arouse his people to renewed dissatisfaction.

In the council which was held by the officers and the tribe he grew violent, and by direct lying tried to make it appear that the Government had no desire to see justice done. The entire expedition would have proved a flat failure if such men had been allowed to remain in their tribes. They were evidently determined not to allow the bad feeling to die out, and would in a short time have had matters in the same condition as before the visits of the officials.

The investigation was one of the most complete that has ever been made of Indian troubles on the coast. Every point where it was thought possible either to discover evidence which would throw light on the fate of the lost canoe, or to allay feelings of disatisfaction, was visited. In each case the trible was given to understand positively that there must be no further efforts on their part to take the law into their own hands, and the warning was couched in such unmistakable terms that in the majority of cases willingness was expressed to promise that no further trouble should take place.

The arrival of the Quadra on the scene was undoubtedly most opportune, as there is but little doubt but that in a short time the ill-feeling would have resulted in bloodshed, which, whenever commenced, would have been very difficult to suppress. Though many of the Indians still continued to maintain a belief that their friends had met with foul play and that in some way the Kitkatlahs were to blame for it, they have come to the conclusion that it will be better to leave the matter to the officers of the law.

The three men who were arrested at Cape Mudge were old offenders. Two of them have been wanted for two or three years, and last year they added to their crimes by successfully resisting a party of special police which was sent up to arrest them. The third man was wanted for breaking jail at Nanaimo. They were sent over to Comox on the Joan in charge of Provincial Police Officers R. H. Maitland-Dougall and McLeod. The raid was made on the village at about 11 p.m., and was done so suddenly and quietly that the men were in irons before the tribe became alarmed.

Among the interesting incidents of the trip was the election of the COLONIST representative to the proud position of a chief of the Kitkatlah tribe. The fourteen men of that tribe who were taken on board the steamer Quadra were leading men of the tribe and naturally well posted on its traditions and mythology. By means of an interpreter the scribe asked them many questions regarding the lore of their ancestors. This they were quite willing to impart, and many pleasant hours were spent in taking notes of their tales. In reply to the questions as to the reason for writing down their words it was explained to them that many white people in distant lands would be glad to know of them and their ways, hence the records. A solemn council was held and the conclusion arrived at, after much debate, that such services to the tribe could only be fittingly rewarded in one way. The orator of the tribe then called the candidate up before the council.

"Oh, friend," said he, "you with eager ears for strange things; listen to our resolve. There was once a great Chief named Gia-wak, who lived and ruled the Kitkatlahs. He is dead, but his name shall not die. We give it to you, because you wish to preserve the name and game of the Kitkatlahs of old. Here, upon this stick, we have carved the totem of Gia-wak. No longer the name of a dead man, it now lives with you. When you come to our village, come with a light heart. Our firesides will never be so crowded but that there will be room for you; no Kitkatlah so hungry as to grudge you a share of his fish. We hail you as a chief, and Gia-wak will be forever one of us."

They then proceeded to translate the totem carved on the walking stick, which was handed over, and the ceremony was complete.

WINNIPEG WIRINGS.

Whiskey Informers Rounded Up—Arrivals of Immigrants—Livery Stable Destroyed.

WINNIPEG April 14—Special)—Considerable sensation has been caused here by the request of two whiskey informers for police protection. They intended laying information against about twenty hotel keepers, but the latter approached them, and it was agreed that the informers were to be paid $300 and get out of the city. They started yesterday in charge of a local bartender, who was to pay the men the money when they crossed the United States boundary. The police, however, got wind of the affair, and the men are now in the jail here, having asked for police protection, and made a complete expose of the saloon-keepers who attempted to close their mouths.

Three trains arrived from the East today, the first section having on board a large number of immigrants from England, Belgium and Southern Russia. The second was a numerous party of colonists from Ontario and the Eastern provinces. Attached to the regular train were also several coaches of foreign immigrants.

MARINE MOVEMENTS.

Captain Walbran Locates a Rock in Lama Passage—Return of the "Danube."

Movements of the Deep Sea Fleet—Heavy Freight for California —Anniversaries.

IS IT THE MINNE-HA-HA?

There is considerable speculation as to what small Victoria smuggling steamer it was that came to grief on Discovery Island during Sunday night's gale. Some think the vessel does not belong here, while others are of the opinion that it is the Minne-ha-ha, which has not, it is said, been in port for the past three or four days. With the description of the wrecked boat the Minne-ha-ha tallies. The Minne-ha-ha had been formerly owned by J. Hunter, but is now in other hands. Since her change of ownership she has undergone considerable alterations above deck, her house having been partially removed, sufficient being left to enclose the machinery as well as to leave a little cabin for the captain. She is a fast running vessel.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

It was after 1 o'clock when the City of Puebla sailed for San Francisco yesterday, the delay being caused by the unusually large freight to be taken on at this port. The steamer loaded here 1,700 sacks of rice, 146 rolls of carpet and 300 odd hides, besides a quantity of miscellaneous articles. She also took the following cabin passengers from Victoria: A. Woodin and wife, Miss G. Gilbert, T. H. Box, Miss L. Mathews, Miss M. Matthews, C. E. McKay, Mrs. D. McKay, Miss A. Harkins, W. J. Mathews, J. Hanley, J. Buchanan, W. L. Ogilvie and A. B. Moncur.

LAMA ROCK.

While on her way north to the scene of the alleged Indian trouble, Capt. Walbran, of the Dominion steamer Quadra, made an important discovery, locating an unmarked rock in Lama passage. The rock bears from Turn point and is N.W. by W. ½ W., being 4⅝ cables distant. There is twelve feet of water on the rock at low tide. It is a mere pinnacle and is in the direct path of navigation. Capt. Walbran has named the pinnacle "Lama" rock.

THE DANUBE ARRIVES.

The steamer Danube, Capt. Myers, returned from the north yesterday afternoon with a small freight and the following passengers: M. T. Johnson, S. A. Spencer, A. G. McDougall, Fritz George, W. Wright and J. Roubillard. While north the Danube spoke the steamer Barbara Boscowitz on the Skeena and the Princess Louise on her way into Queen Charlotte Sound.

Small Lot Household Furniture, Stove and Pipes, Cooking Utensils, Crockery, etc., etc.

This Property is within easy distance of many of the most important Gold, Silver and Coal Mines in West Kootenay. The population of this district will increase this year by at least 10,000; the area of farm land is very limited, and from this it may be fairly asserted that beef and all classes of farm produce will find a ready and lucrative market. The soil is the best bottom land, and the locality is one of the few places in the Province where so large a piece of good farm land can be found in one block. A river runs through the property, and rainbow trout are plentiful and afford capital sport. Deer abound in considerable numbers. Bear, Wolf, Coyote and other large game are to be found in the hills. There are two creeks recorded and belonging to the estate, one flows all the year round. Limestone and brick clay are to be had in the valley.

The Cattle are well bred; a much larger herd could be farmed with the place. The bunch grass on the hills in the vicinity covers many thousands of acres, and is available to the few land owners in the valleys. All buildings and fences about the farm are in good order, and farming operations can be gone on with at once; about 180 acres of ploughing have been, so far, provided for this year's work.

The Climate is not severe, the land being about 1,100 feet above sea level; the station was for many years the winter quarters of the H. B. Co.'s pack trains. There is a weekly express in and out. Goods and supplies at wholesale can be procured on order and delivered in 48 hours.

The Title is by grant from the Crown, and is free of all encumbrances. Immediate possession can be given.

Important Railway works are now in progress within moderate distance, and two railway lines have been run to pass close to or through the estate, which can be reached in the spring in three days' journey from Victoria.

The South West Kootenay District, British Columbia, judging from the actual ore products of the mines this winter, is destined in the next year or two to become one of the richest and most important mineral centres in the world. Statistics show, that although the district is in its primary stage, the mines have developed ore veins rich enough to warrant the investment of over a million dollars. When these mines come to be worked systematically, there will be an Influx of Population, which will require beef and farm produce in large quantities. The limited quantity of really good farm land in the district to supply these requirements makes this

TRICKY AND UNTRUTHFUL.

The Daily Columbian of the 10th inst., contains an article on the redistribution question, which is a fair specimen of the way in which that paper discusses the policy of the Government. It is full of mis-statements and the writer proves himself an adept in the art of misquotation. He says at the outset that the Premier stated on the 14th of March "that the Government will bring down a measure to do justice to all parts of the community," and that on the 30th of the same month he said: "Redistribution is not absolutely necessary and the Government has decided not to bring down a measure." The quotation, italics and all, is just as it appears in the Columbian. The editor, of course, wishes the reader to believe that these are the very words of Mr. Davie's announcement. But what the Premier really said was different both in form and sense. Here is the passage which our contemporary has so outrageously garbled;

"It is not absolutely necessary to do so as no election is imminent, and even if the bill were brought down, there is no present indication of anything that would justify the Government in dissolving the Legislature before the usual time."

As the reader sees, the words which the editor of the Columbian places in italics are not in the passage at all. This is "trickery" of a very dishonest kind. Honest writers, when they place a passage within quotation marks, are most careful to have them in every respect identical with the text from which they are taken. But the Columbian had an object in suppressing part of the passage and in tacking on a statement that did not properly belong to it.

The head and front of Mr. Davie's offending was his not bringing down a bill which had been promised in the Speech from the Throne. If it is "perfidy" in Governments not to bring down all the measures that are mentioned in the Speeches from the Throne, there has not been a Government either in in Great Britain or Canada which has not been at some period of its existence most perfidious. The Dominion Government, in the session that has just closed, for good and sufficient reasons no doubt, dropped two important measures that had been promised in the Governor's Speech. One was a bill relating to the franchise, and the object of the other was to improve the Civil Service. Although these two promised bills were withdrawn, and that, too, without a word of excuse or explanation that we have seen, no member of the Opposition thought of accusing the Premier and his colleagues of "perfidy," and it is to be presumed that the Liberals in Ottawa have as correct ideas as to what is fair and frank and proper in a Government as any contributor to the columns of the Westminster Columbian.

But our contemporary's "trickery" does not end here. It clumsily and untruthfully tries to give its readers the impression that Mr. Davie tried to justify the course he took by evidence that had no existence when he made up his mind to drop the bill. This is what it says:

And what are the excuses (reasons there are none)? After the Government having had, in Bulletin No. 5, the revised census figures before it for about a year—on which figures, evidently, the voluntary promise of redistribution was made in the "speech from the throne," and reiterated on the 14th of March, Premier Davie, on the 30th of that month, tells the House, in effect, that the reason for not bringing down redistribution, which intention he then announced, was because the proper census figures were not before the Government; and on Friday last, April 7th, when put upon his defence for the perfidy of his Administration—which perfidy was consummated and announced on the 30th of March—the Honorable Mr. Davie endeavored to bolster up and excuse the action which his Government had then taken by citing a hocus-pocus of census figures published in the Vancouver Government organ, as an Ottawa despatch, on March 31st!—a day after the Government had announced its virtual perjury and perfidy to the House and the country!

What are the facts? After Mr. Davie had shown with the utmost clearness, from figures that had been in his possession for some time, that it would be impossible to apportion the representation fairly or to the satisfaction of any part of the Province, he went on to say:—

"Evidently there is something wrong with the census, or else about the population of New Westminster District. Why, the returns of the census are not all in yet It was only on the 31st of March that the following appeared in the Vanconver World."

Then follows the statement giving the population by origins. What could be more open than this? The Premier, after he had, as we may say, closed his case, introduced this farther evidence, telling his hearers where it came from and when he received it. The man who affects to find something perfidious in a statement made in this candid and straightforward way, must be either a great hypocrite or a great fool.

The information which caused the Government to pause in the work of framing a redistribution bill was, as is shown by a return laid on the table of the House obtained from Ottawa at different times between the 26th of February and the 25th of March. That information had been received and the determination to withdraw the bill had been arrived at and announced before what our contemporary elegantly and appropriately calls "a hocus-pocus of census figures" was quoted.

If the Government needed a justification for the course it has pursued in this matter, it could not find a better or a more conclusive one than in statements and calculations respecting the population of the Province made by members of the Opposition and its newspaper organs. They have proved, if they have proved anything, that the census, as regards this Province, is not to be relied upon. The Columbian finds fault with the Premier's conclusions when, if it is capable of forming an intelligent opinion on the subject, it would see that they are all fairly and legitimately drawn from figures supplied to the Government by the authorities in Ottawa. If there is anything wrong or absurd or "insulting" in those conclusions to blame the Premier for them is the silly trick of the shallowest kind of schemer. What the Columbian should give the Premier and his colleagues in the Government credit for is that they did not act upon the conclusions to which the statistics of the census fairly lead. If they had done so there would be some reason for the newspapers of the Mainland to complain. But as they have taken the prudent course and done what was fair to all parts of the Province they deserve, and we have no doubt they will before long obtain, the commendation of all fair-minded and intelligent British Columbians.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

The figurist of the Vancouver World no doubt means well, but his execution is not quite so commendable as his intention. He has by a somewhat elaborate calculation figured out the population of this Province to be 107,077. In this he differs from Mr. George Johnston, the able and accomplished Dominion Statistician. That official in the first volume of the census, which has just been issued, makes the population of British Columbia to be 98,173. Where does our contemporary get the extra 8,904. He surely cannot have evolved them out of his inner consciousness, and it is not likely that the officials of the census department would make so palpable a mistake as the World's calculator has apparently discovered.

On looking over the figures we find that the figurist has counted the Chinese in the Province twice over. In his statement he sets down the "white" population of the Mainland at 31,946 and the white population of the Island at 31,025, but he does not seem to know that the Deputy Minister of Agriculture included the Chinese in the white population. This can easily be shown to be the case. If to the 62,971 white inhabitants of Mainland and Island 35,202, the number of Indians, be added, we have just 98,173, the population of the Province as shown by the census. This leaves no room in the Province for the Chinese. But they are here all the same. Again, if we take from the World's 107,077 the 8,910 Chinese, we have 98,167, which is within six of the census population.

After this little error of the World's figurist is corrected it will be found that his conclusions must be the same as our own. There are, according to Mr. Lowe, 31,946 "white" people, which include the Chinese, on the Mainland. There are, according to the same authority, 31,025 white people on the Island of Vancouver. If we take from the white population of the Mainland the 5,727 Chinese who are not entitled to vote, that live on the Mainland, then we have 26,219 the population of European origin on the Mainland. If we subtract the 3,183 Chinese from the white population of the Island we have of genuine white people from whom the votes are taken 27,842. This gives the Island 1,623 white people more than the Mainland.

Now it must be remembered it is the authorities who furnish the figures from which the results are obtained who are responsible for them. We did not manufacture them. We simply found out what they meant. It must be remembered that right or wrong, exact or inexact, it is the figures supplied from Ottawa that lead to the conclusion that the voting population of the Mainland is 26,219 and the voting population of the Island is 27,842. This being the case it must be admitted that those who find fault with the Government for not acting on the results thus fairly worked out from the census are not the true friends of the Mainland.

QUARANTINE.

We see that the Government of the United States is fully alive to the necessity of doing all that can be done to prevent the cholera getting a foothold on this continent during the coming summer. An International Conference of Health Officers was held in New York last week. Its deliberations cannot fail to be followed by good results, both to the United States and to Canada. Whatever people may think and say about commercial union and political union between the United States and Canada, there can be bat one opinion as to the benefits to be derived from a union of the two countries for the preservation of the public health. The closer that union is and the more hearty the co-operation of the two Governments, the better for the whole continent. The New York Times, in an article on Quarantine and Sanitation, says:

The cholera "scare" of last year and the continuance of the danger this year seem likely to prove of great benefit to this country and especially to this city. They have given an impetus to the study and discussion of questions of quarantine and of local sanitation which will greatly advance the general appreciation of such matters, and they promise to result in great improvement in the administration of affairs pertaining to the public health. The benefit will not be found alone in the safeguards against contagious diseases brought from other countries, but also in the advance made in sanitary precautions which serve as a protection against all manner of influences that impair the general health.

The representatives of State Boards of Health and other public sanitary authorities who are now in conference in this city appear to be agreed upon the importance, if not the necessity, of maintaining a strict quarantine so long as cholera is prevalent abroad. The most advanced policy, from a scientific point of view, is doubtless that of Great Britain, which relies mainly on a thorough local sanitation and the least possible interference with trade and travel. This policy is almost a necessity for Great Britain on account of its dependence upon uninterrupted commercial intercourse, and it is made practicable there by the restricted area of the country, the concentration of traffic at a few great ports, and a central control over the execution of sanitary regulations by the National Government.

This does not make it less important to give all possible attention to local sanitary conditions. If by any chance infection should get through the quarantine barrier, our only safety against epidemic would lie in such a degree of cleanliness, such effective drainage, purity of water supply, and general physical condition of the people as will make it easy to stamp out sporadic cases, and will give contagion the least possible chance to spread. We have every reason to look forward without alarm to the advance of summer.

This is sound common sense. The city which pays proper attention to its sanitary affairs, which has a pure water supply, and which is as clean as it ought to be, need not fear a visitation of the cholera, which is, par excellence, "a dirt disease." It is to be hoped that the municipal authorities of Victoria are preparing to put the city in such a state that it can bid defiance to the cholera.

County Court Sitting.

The next sitting of the Victoria County Court will be held on Thursday, May 4.

Among the passengers by the North Pacific on Thursday evening was Mrs. Morris Moss, who, it is understood, is bound for Denver, Col., to join her husband.

Changed Hands.

The Mirror saloon, at the corner of Yates and Broad streets, changed owners yesterday, passing from the proprietorship of Mr. James Munger into the hands of "old Ted Legg."

Want More Accommodation.

The Benchers of the Law Society are beginning to find that their present accommodation in the Court house is not sufficient, and have made an application to the Government for the room adjoining the Law library, at present used by the Law Society reporter. It is probable their request will be granted.

A Plea of Guilty.

The case of Regina v. Fred. Day, for larceny, was heard yesterday in the Speedy Trials court, before Mr. Justice Drake. Mr. S. Perry Mills appeared for the prisoner; Mr. Arthur G. Smith, deputy attorney-general, for the Crown. The prisoner pleaded guilty to both counts, and was sentenced to six and three months for the two offences charged.

Three Jail Birds.

There were three prisoners sent out to the Provincial jail yesterday, the party being composed of a Chinaman, who was sentenced to three months for selling whiskey to Indians; an Indian who, being found drunk, will be obliged to serve one month, and Sam Johns, a colored man who has visited a house of ill-fame on Herald street rather frequently and whose time of confinement is one month. The three were sentenced at the police court yesterday.

Stealing Fruit-Trees.

Officer Robb, of the Provincial Police force, with two prisoners in charge, arrived from Tumbo Island last evening, where he had arrested Frank Davis and James Collison for stealing fruit-trees from a farmer named Pike. The prisoners are well known to the police, having been implicated in a case of sheep stealing some time ago. Their case will come up at 11 o'clock this morning in the Provincial police court. Mr. Robinson, acting magistrate at Tumbo Island, arrived here in company with Officer Robb.

A Disputed Will Case.

The case of Adams v. McBeath, was begun yesterday in the Supreme court before Mr. Justice Crease. The plaintiff was represented by Hon. Theodore Davie, Q.C., and Mr. J. P. Walls; the defendant by Messrs. E. V. Bodwell, Thornton Fell and H. G. Hall. The whole day was occupied taking evidence, slow progress being made, and from present appearances it looks as if the case will last another day or two. The action is to set aside a will of the late Samuel Adams so that the estate may go to a nephew.

Comedy Under Difficulties.

Chic and charming Patti Rosa and her company of fun makers were at The Victoria last evening and presented "Dolly Varden," as one of the company pathetically explained, "on a very empty stomach." The change of the bill from "Miss Dixie" was necessitated by the illness of one of the ladies, who could not bear up under the many trials incidental to the Victoria visit; the North Pacific had a very rough passage over, everybody was seasick, and the company was hurried from the steamer to the theatre with no intermission for refreshments. Under the circumstances the performance was highly creditable, although hardly up to the "Dolly Varden" of last year.

St. Barnabas Vestry Meeting.

The annual vestry meeting of St. Barnabas church was held on Thursday evening, with Rev. George W. Taylor presiding, and Messrs. E. Baynes Reed and P. H. Marshall, lay representatives to the Synod, in attendance. The first business of the evening was the selection of lay representatives for the current year, Messrs. P. H. Marshall, T. Bradbury, F. H. Coles and J. E. Raynes being chosen. Mr. W. Trickey was named as Rector's warden, and Mr. Thomas Bradbury elected by the congregation. The new Church committee is composed of Messrs. T. B. Pearson, S. E. King, J. S. Bailey, J. E. Raynes, F. H. Coles and George Jay, sr., while the sidesmen are Messrs. S. E. King, Jabez King, F. H. Coles, T. B. Pearson and J. A. Emory. Votes of thanks to the retiring representatives, church wardens and committee, and also to the ladies for their valued assistance terminated Thursday's proceedings. An adjourned meeting will be held to-night when the audit of accounts will be presented. It is expected that satisfactory arrangements will be made to retain Rev. Mr. Taylor in charge of the church.

An Evening of Fun and Music.

Standing room was all that could be afforded those who arrived late to see the entertainment given by the "King's Daughters," in Philharmonic hall, last evening—for every available seat was occupied. The programme was of a well varied nature, and thoroughly pleased all who attended. The programme opened with a tableau "The Three Maids of Lee," which consisted of two parts, both were set "all in a garden fair," in which young ladies, dressed respectively in old-fashioned and pretty modern costumes, figured prominently. The "young maids" of the first scene were the Misses Jenns, Loewen and Pemberton, while those who assumed the role of maids in an older stage of life were the Misses Davies, Loewen and Langley. Following this item on the bill of fare was a vocal solo by Miss Rhodes, who sang as usual very nicely. A second tableau, "Home They Brought Her Warrior Dead," was next produced and well applauded, the ladies taking part being: Mrs. Shore, Miss Langley, Mrs. McNaughton Jones, Miss Emma Loewen, the Misses Worlock, the Misses Gracie and Olive Peters, Miss Aspland and Miss Kittie Davie. A comic song by Mr. Foulkes followed, after which came the tableau, "Where are you going my pretty maid?" In this performance the milk-maid's song was by Miss Dunsmuir, while J. O'Reily acted the Squire. When the curtain rose again, the audience was given a musical treat by the guitar and mandolin orchestra composed of Mrs. Barnard, Miss Emma Loewen, Miss Powell, Miss Gertie Loewen, Mrs. Honington and Miss Jenns. An encore was insisted upon. Messrs. Webber and Foulkes, in school girls' summer costume, sang "Ma's Advice" very comically." Another tableau, "The Low-backed Car," followed, the characters being sustained by Miss Johnson, Capt. Ogilvie, Messrs. Foulkes, Beaven and F. Parfitt, and Miss Galpin. While the scene was in progress, Mrs. Helmcken favored with a number of solos. The last, and to many the most important part of the programme, was the farce, "The Obstinate Family," which was well received, the ladies and gentlemen taking part being Mrs. Snowdon, Mrs. Flewry, Miss Powell, Mr. B. Drake, Mr. W. H. Langley and Mr. Mytton.

New Departure.

T. G. Rayner has, with his usual energy and enterprise, embarked in a new line of business, having leased and fitted up as a grocery and provision store, the premises 45 Store street, where Mr. George Millar, a thoroughly practical man, will represent his interests and attend to the requirements of customers.

The Wire to Comox.

Superintendent J. Wilson of the Canadian Pacific telegraph lines announces that the new Comox wire is now working from Nanaimo to Big Qualicum, a distance of forty-five miles. Mr. T. D. Conway is rushing the work of construction, and telegraphic communication with Comox will be an accomplished fact in less than a fortnight.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

A General Committee Appointed to Decide on the Nature of the Celebration.

Regatta Proposed for the 24th of May—Citizens and Clubs to Co-operate.

Mayor Beaven presided over a meagrely attended meeting at the City Hall last evening, the object of which was briefly stated as being to decide what should be done by Victorians to celebrate the Queen's Birthday. While there were not a large number present, those who did attend were fairly representative. They included members of all the prominent clubs and associations in the city, and while all had ideas of their own as to how the celebration should be conducted, they were willing to give in to others, and the probable result of mutual concessions will be one of the most successful celebrations ever held in the city, and that is saying a good deal.

The first question mooted was that of decididing whether the fete should extend over one, two or three days. It was stated that if the finance committee which would have to do with the collection of money to carry on the celebration successfully, could be in a position to say exactly what would be done, it would be better able to go ahead with the work of canvassing for subscriptions. On the other hand, it was pointed out that the best way of working would be to appoint a general committee to take the matter in hand, and to let this committee decide what should be done. This idea finally prevailed and a general committee was appointed to consist of representatives of each of the city clubs and associations with the general committee, the latter to be constituted as follows:

Hon. Robt. Beaven (chairman), Messrs. T. Burnes, J. A. Holland, J. Roderick, Hon. J. H. Turner, J. Partridge, Hon. Theodore Davie, Hon. Col. Baker, D. R. Ker, J. McGregor, H. L. Salmon, B. Boggs, C. E. Renouf, W. C. Ward, C. Jenkins, W. H. Ellis, Wm. Templeman, Col. Prior, Chas. Hayward, C. E. Redfern, Thos. Earle, R. P. Rithet, A. C. Flumerfelt and Jno. Irving, with power to add to their number. These, with the representatives of the city clubs, will form a general committee who are to deal with the matter of the celebration and make public their findings at a meeting to be held next Monday evening at the City Hall.

The motion to make Hon Robt. Beaven, M.P.P., mayor of the city, the permanent chairman of the committee was carried unanimously. He will be sure to be a good head of the finance department, and if his experience of last year is to be the test of his work this season, will be a most acceptable man in the important position he will have to fill.

The various city clubs are expected to meet at once and to show that they heartily co-operate by sending in the names of the five delegates they will contribute to the committee. The idea of having the various clubs send representatives is to make the general committee as representative as possible—in short, to have it so constituted that it will voice the feelings of those who are expected to contribute to the entertainment, both in sport and in funds.

THE JOHN G. TAYLOR WING.

McGregor & Jeeves Secure the Contract for Erecting the New Orphanage.

Their Figures Well Within the Limit Prescribed in the Terms of Competition.

After several sittings and the careful consideration of a large number of tenders, the contract for building the new Protestant Orphans' Home on the twelve-and-a-half acre plot at the corner of Cook street and Hillside avenue has been awarded to Messrs. McGregor & Jeeves, whose offer, $20,310, includes all slate roofing and heating with hot water. A perspective sketch of the new building may now be seen in the office window of the secretary, Mr. Charles Hayward, who with President F. H. Worlock and Mr. James Hutcheson, composed the building committee.

The plans provide for a building pleasing to the eye, original in design and thoroughly modern in all its accommodations. It will be constructed of brick, upon stone foundation, and each and every apartment, whether for the occupation and use of the officers, teachers and servants, or for the one hundred little ones who may find a home under the sheltering roof of the institution, will be light, airy and comfortable. The playrooms, dormitories and bathrooms of the boys occupy one section; the girls' quarters another, and the two will be made equally comfortable and homelike. The hospital necessities are met by the erection of a smaller detached building in which will be combined all the improvements resulting from experiments and experience in the treatment of the sick. Every detail of the plans testifies to the care and attention spent upon them by the architect, Mr. Thomas Hooper.

Although not yet definitely decided, it is expected that the new structure will be named the John G. Taylor wing of the Protestant Orphans' Home, in grateful remembrance of the late Mr. Taylor's legacy of $30,000 to the institution, the whole of which sum has been appropriated for building purposes, leaving besides a somewhat large amount to be raised by the energetic managers, as will be readily seen by the appended figures:

Cost of site (12½ acres)	$ 12,500
McGregor & Jeeves' contract	20,310
Laundry and electric light machinery and plant	2,600
Furniture and fittings (estimate)	4,000
Architect's fee and premiums	1,250
Fencing and sundries (estimate)	1,500
Total cost (estimate)	$ 42,160

Work will be commenced immediately and the entire building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the first of October next. The accepted tender for the selected plan shows that the original design of Architect Hooper can be executed by responsible contractors (with first-class bondsmen) for a sum well within the prescribed limit of $20,000, as laid down in conditions of competition. The committee, however, in wisely substituting slates for shingles have increased the cost some $1,250 not originally contemplated.

THE WHEEL.

FIRST CENTURY FOR 1893.

Great praise is due Mr. J. Laing, of the Brantford bicycle club, who rode the first century of the year, between Paris and Grimsby and return, on a New Brantford, in twelve hours and twenty minutes. He started from Brantford at 6:30 a.m. and returned at 9 p.m.; this included stoppages. The roads were very muddy, full of hard ruts and new laid gravel, in fact they were almost unrideable, but he came through without a single mishap. The Brantford boys feel proud of him.—Com.

CURIOS OF SAVAGE LIFE.

A Unique Collection Added to the Many Attractions of the Provincial Museum.

The Life and Habits of the Island Tribes Illustrated, With Many Traditions.

Strange Story of the Man-eater and Dog-eater—Tastes Strangely Acquired.

Sightseers have just had provided for them an additional attraction at the Provincial Museum, where the Indian department has been enlarged, so that it now occupies a room double the former size, well stocked with the fantastic and useful articles collected during the course of many years' labors amongst the Indians of the islands of British Columbia. The curios latest received have not yet been completely arranged, but Curator Fannin is now busily at work upon them, and in a few days will be in a position to welcome all comers to the new department.

The assortment is remarkable for its diversity, and gives one a good insight into many phases of Indian life and native characteristics. There are miniatures of the dwelling places, the working implements, the household utensils, the ornaments of dress, the masks and other paraphernalia of the dance, the coffin boxes in which the dead Indians are laid away, and—even going beyond the grave—the skulls and bones generally, which have been resurrected for use or exhibition. In the absence of a catalogue or printed description of any kind, it is somewhat hard for the ordinary visitor to learn the significance of the multifarious objects which attract his attention, and Mr. Fannin will, no doubt, have many drafts made upon his rapidly accumulating stock of Indian lore. The two white men who are perhaps the best posted on all that concerns the traditions of the British Columbia native tribes are those who have gathered together this Provincial collection — Mr. James Deans, whose attention has been given chiefly to the Queen Charlotte Indians; and Mr. F. Jacobsen, whose work has been amongst the Bella Bellas and Bella Coolas. Mr. Deans is now in Chicago, in charge of the B.C. Indian exhibit at the World's Fair. When a COLONIST man visited the Museum yesterday, he was fortunate enough to find Mr. Jacobsen there, and in consequence heard the stories of the PRINCIPAL OBJECTS OF INTEREST.

There are several miniatures of the native huts, skilfully and substantially built of cedar planks hewn by the braves. At the door of each hut stands the "totem pole," a highly ornamental piece of workmanship, with the great deeds of the tribe inscribed upon it, and constituting, as it were, the family crest. These miniatures are of course too small to exhibit within them the household trappings, which are, therefore, shown separately. The feeding utensils are the principal of these, and a collection of feast dishes of all sizes, each cut out of a solid piece of cedar, and cunningly ornamented, are marvels of the woodworkers' art. Of rude appearance, but quite as remarkable as useful, are a set of stoneware dishes made for the convenience of the elderly portion of the tribes, whose appetites survive the power of mastication. These old people grind up in these dishes, as in a mortar, the salmon and other fish forming their principal food.

There is a rudely constructed loom, and marvellously spun robes—its product. Heavy stones, niched so as to be more firmly grasped in the wielders' hands, are the "pile drivers," indispensible in the construction of fish dams. Axes made of stone serve all the purposes of the white man's keen steel chopper. The oft mentioned "sledge-hammer blow" might be well illustrated with their fighting hammers of stone with stout wooded handle, and there are other weapons shown made out of human bones. The dance blankets form the chief articles of apparel shown, one of these which attracts general attention being ornamented with wooden "feathers," naturally painted in imitation of the real article, which gives place to the substitute because of the rattle required to be produced in the dance. Wooden combs and other adornments of the hair are not unlike those in use in white civilization.

THE DANCING MASKS

form the most prominent feature of the whole collection, as may readily be realized when it is mentioned that the Indians have upwards of sixty distinct dances, and in connection with each of these dances there is a tradition of more or less interest. One very distinguished looking mask is credited with being that of the Indian who first brought the dance to the O-wee-kanos, the tribe who have been a good deal in the papers lately; his distinguishing characteristic is a second mouth, specially adapted for asides. A particularly fierce-looking mask is that of the Devil of the River, who capsizes the canoes. The Raven, who first brought the sun to the earth, is shown in sombre black; he stole the sun out of an Indian box in heaven, and the heat turned the thief black. Several wolf heads have each their tradition. A grizzly bear is given the credit of having provided the fertile valleys of the Province and honored accordingly; when the grizzly came on the scene mountains covered the whole scene; wherever he stepped a depression was formed, and dust blowing in made the soil. Two sad-eyed masks are those of the crying spirits, before whose time tears were unknown. The Goddess of the Seas is propitiated by a mask designed to be the most beautiful of the collection. A character of a decidedly Japanese caste of countenance, the Kaijul, who brought the dance to the Coast; despite his Oriental appearance he is said to have come from the Northwest.

An interior view is given of the house of the mighty man-eater, who, after a supposed fast of four months, comes in from the wilderness, or down from Heaven, and honors various members of his tribe by biting good chunks out of their flesh. This "spirit" and others of more or less renown is one of the heroes of the following constituting the "story of Ianis the Man-eater and of Nullemkilla the Dog-eater," forming part of the collection of such interesting tales made by Mr. Jacobsen:

"There was once a great chief lived up in Esstead, not far from Bella-Coola, whose name was Wakar. Wakar had a son named Kla-killit-lela (dancing was unknown to the Indians at this time); he had a tradition that there were four spirits in Heaven who used to eat mummies, dogs, etc. This chief was thinking how he could best introduce his son to the dances, he never having seen them. One day he told one of his slaves to get ready, as he was going on a hunting expedition. So Wakar went to a certain tree and took down one of the mummies which was there. Cutting some of the flesh off he mixed it with some of mountain goat meat and placed it in a box. Evening coming on he camped, and ordered the slave to build a fire and cook the meat by putting red hot stones into the box which contained it, in water, and the slave, thinking the mixture to be mountain goat, accordingly did his bidding. After this the chief pretended he was unwell, but bade the slave eat. Beforehand Wakar had put all the mummy meat in one side of the box for his slave to eat. Next day he made the slave work extra hard, to see what effect the work and mummy meat would have on him, but it failed to show any bad effects. For four days we tried this on, but the slave was none the worse: after the fourth night he asked his slave how he liked the meat and if he felt sick, whereupon the slave, not knowing he had eaten mummy meat, replied he felt all right, and no bad effects resulted. "Well," said the chief, "thank you for your kindness in letting me experiment on you, as I was under the impression some bad results would follow." So he told the slave the tradition of the four spirits, Bek-Bek-Koalla-Nesua, Hou-How (he being the brain-eater) Kalhoksua Meunis. The slave would not believe he had eaten human meat, so they departed on the way home. Now, Wakar seeing no bad resulted from munmie eating, decided the son, Kla Killetla, would represent one of these spirits and take his name and so be the first cannibal on earth.

"Wakar had another son, Gallwak, and he wanted to see what effects the slave would feel from eatihg dog-eating and if none bad resulted, would get this son to represent the spirit of Nullem-killa on earth. The tradition of the spirit is as follows: There were once four brothers out hunting up in the mountains near Bella Coola and during the night, while they encamped under a projecting rock watching the goat meat roasting, one of the brothers heard a tremendous roar, as if an earthquake or several rocky land slides were at hand; in the midst of this the spirit of the Dog-eater came down. All the three brothers, not daring to look, hid their faces, but the younger one, more bold, looked and saw Nullem-killa. These four brothers had four dogs with them, and Nullem-killa gobbled one dog and bit its head off, the other three taking to flight, and hiding among the three prostrate brothers. After eating the dog, Nullum-killa thus addressed the brother: "Why did you not run away and hide like your brothers? For this I will give you my name and you shall be the second Nullem-killa on earth, but remember you must always eat dogs raw." So breathing on the brother four times, he vanished; the brother at once caught a dog and bit the head off and received Nullem-killa's spirit and ascended into the skies, first saying to his brothers: "Nullem-killa's spirit has taken me away, but remember I will be with you again in four months." The three brothers then saw him ascend, and finally lost sight of him. The brothers returned again to their home, where their two sisters lived, and had the usual Indian lamentation of four days, pulling their hair and scratching themselves, as is the custom among this class.

"In four months' time, as one of the sisters was out walking, she thought she saw their long lost brother on the other side of the river, so went across; but as soon as she would take hold of him he would immediately vanish into smoke. His appearance was altogether different; his face was haggard, his eyes and mouth standing out like a madman's, and his hair was on one side so long and the other side so short, while in patches it had gone altogether. She asked her brother why his hair was thus. He replied: 'Up in Nullem-killa's presence the wind is so strong it has blown it out.' Then she begged him to come home and live with them again; but he said it could not be; he could not return until she did certain things for him. Then she said, what can I do for you? He said: 'Go; I will return in four days, when you will shoot with a bow a burning arrow over me four times, which would take away Nullem-kiila's spirit from me and I could thus return to earth and to my friends." Then, after four days he was seen across the river, whereupon they shot the arrows four times over him as directed, and the spirit of the dog-eater left him and he returned to earth and to his friends; he represented the Nullem-killa dance on earth after this.

"After the chief Wakar had told his slave this tradition he told his slave to get ready and he would go out on a hunting expedition again. The chief took a box with him containing raw dog meat and mountain goat, the slave being ignorant of the presence of dog flesh in the goat, he thinking it all to be goat flesh. Telling his slave to boil part of it he commanded him to eat all that was cooked, Wakar himself not eating any on account of his pretended sickness. Then the second day he forced his slave to eat all the remaining raw dog flesh; afterwards to work hard, as he wanted to see what effect it would have on him. Waiting till next morning, and seeing no bad effects on his slave, he thanked him and said: 'You have done more for me than any other man, and you shall not lose by it, you shall build yourself a mansion and be the head man around among us. Seeing no bad effects have come from your eating mum mie meat and dog flesh, I am determined one of my sons shall each represent a spirit, the elder on Bek Bekkoallallesua, the Man-eater, and the younger to represent Nullem-killa, the Dog-eater.

"After the dance, history was decided, the two brothers hid away for four months, as is customary for these people to do, and reappeared after that time, and one of them eats men and the other dogs, imitating the spirits up in Heaven."

VERY INTERESTING MASKS.

The mask representing the spirit of Kalkokgua, is one of those on view at the Provincial Museum, and so is the mask of Nullem-killa. At the present time, Mr. Jacobsen says the Indians representing these spirits, do not eat men, but only take a piece out of the side or arm; but he has seen the man representing the Dog-eater, eat dogs. He has passed coffins (empty) and asked the Indians where the bodies were? They explained how they had pretended to have eaten them, but he did not credit the story. He has, however, new pieces taken out of the legs and arms.

The man-eater is the first one to be fed with water from a portion cut off the skull, it being the law among them to that effect. If they neglect this he is liable to run up and bite some one. All bitten are paid for the amount bitten out, being payed from $5 to $20, according to the injury; the people bitten having given their full consent to this proceeding before the operation, so making the Indians at the dance who are not acquainted with the imposition believe the spirits drive them to do this. Really the "biting" is done with a knife, but so quick as to make people think it is really with the teeth.

Every article on exhibition in the collection has its own interesting story; for which, however, in the absence of catalogue or description of any kind, the visitor must draw mainly upon his imagination.

DEATHLY FEELINGS!

Debility and Weakness After an Attack of La Grippe!

"Under a Kind Providence I Am Indebted to Paine's Celery Compound for My Life."

MRS. C. M. HERSEY.

Mrs. C. M. Hersey, a most estimable lady, living in Hawkesbury, Ont., owes her life to the healing and fortifying powers of Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Hersey's condition for a time was alarming, and called for very careful and sure treatment. The use of the Compound saved a valuable life. Read the following letter:—

"Early in January last I had a severe attack of la grippe, which, however, soon yielded to prompt treatment. I was only confined to my bed for three or four days, and congratulated myself on having recovered in so brief a time. As the days rolled on, however, I found I was, day by day, growing weaker and weaker, till by the last of the month I was unable to walk across the room without availing myself of the help of every chair, table and door, to keep from falling. About the last week in January I commenced taking your Paine's Celery Compound according to directions, and by the time the bottle was finished, I was feeling as well as usual, but in a few days I found myself running down again with such deathly feelings coming over me at times, as no words can describe. I then procured a second and a third bottle, with results as before. The last bottle, however, I took in smaller doses, and less frequently, so that when spring came on, I discontinued it entirely. Having part of a bottle left, I am now taking it occasionally as a sedative, to procure quiet sleep, which I find very effective. I have no hesitation in saying that under a kind Providence, I am indebted to your Paine's Celery Compound for my life, and the comparatively good health I now enjoy."

Respectfully,
MRS. C. M. HERSEY.

THE PROPHETS ARE SHY

New Elements of Uncertainty In Baseball.

PROBABLE EFFECT OF NEW RULES.

Boston's Club Will Start as a Favorite—The Reason Pools Are Not Made on Baseball. Why Does Pneumonia Always Spare the Players?

Only the spring and the baseball prophets are late. With the pitcher handicapped by five feet more of distance from the home plate and a strict enforcement of the balk rule, three new elements of play will enter into games this year—viz: More safe hitting to the outfield, more safe bunt hitting to the infield and more base running. Add to this the uncertainty which the changed pitching rule gives to every pitcher's abilities as compared with those which he formerly displayed, and it can plainly be seen why the baseball prophets are still studying the stars through the telescopes of their minds and hesitate in casting the usual spring horoscope.

The Bostons will be the favorite when these guesses do come in. Of that there can be no doubt. Champions always carry the bulk of public confidence into a campaign. Still that team has not been strengthened, whereas other teams, notably the New Yorks, have. Therefore I am inclined to believe the New Yorks will be second choice. Ward's presence in a team inspires faith among the cranks, and no team in the country can "show up" so well as the so called "Giants" with base runners.

Anson of course has declared and declared it boldly that his Chicagos will "in all human probability" win the race this year. Whenever the "Old Man" fails to claim the championship early in March, we will all knew he is dead and laid with his forefathers. And the peculiarity about his annual proclamation is that he is always sincere. He believes in his team as a mother believes in the superior goodness of her children.

The Pittsburgs, by reason of the extraordinary spurt they made at the close of last season, are looked upon generally as a dangerous club to championship candidates. The Brooklyns will be weakened by the loss of Griffin, who is about to quit ball playing and go into the brewing business. An impression prevails among the "analyzists" that the Clevelands, who finished so strong last year, will not be able to keep the same pace this year on account of the effect the new rule will have upon their young pitchers. Ewing's presence in the team, however, is expected to add some strength. The Cincinnatis for 11 years have never failed to bring annual disappointment to their friends and patrons. It is not strange, therefore, that very little is heard in the way of predictions about their chances for this year. The four ex-association clubs brought up the rear of the procession last year, and each one of them is so situated, therefore, as to be warranted in hoping for and expecting a better record for 1893. The Baltimores, however, are meeting with some discouragement during their practice tour through the Southern league circuit by being defeated with painful regularity.

The very late spring—unseasonable weather—throughout all the National league circuit will make it very embarrassing for the clubs which early in the year decided against a preliminary southern trip. The Clevelands were driven thereby to change their plans, and their team has joined the St. Louis, Pittsburgs and Baltimores in the middle Atlantic and gulf states.

The closing of poolrooms in New York city will undoubtedly help baseball attendance at the Polo grounds. There were 240 of these rooms, and each one had a daily patronage of several hundred people. A large percentage of these poolroom patrons will spend their spare time now at the baseball park.

It is a notable fact that with all those poolrooms open for business not a "book" has been made on baseball games for several years. I believe the last bookmaker who tried it was one whose room could be found on Park row. In 1888 he one day posted odds of 3 to 5 against the New Yorks and 3 to 5 against the Chicagos. When the two clubs were to meet in the afternoon, his patrons came and began to "play" the New Yorks, but none wanted the Chicagos. He let the odds recede on the Chicagos till even money was offered, but no one would buy them. When his book closed, he stood to win about $600 if the Chicagos were victorious and to lose $365 if the New Yorks won. He lost. That evening as he paid out the $365 he made a vow to let baseball alone thereafter, and he did. That was the last "book" known to have been made on a baseball game. The sport is too square and can be too easily beaten by the baseball "talent" to have any attraction for bookmakers.

The signing of players like Rusie of the New Yorks, Thompson of the Philadelphias, Burns of the Brooklyns and Long of the Bostons at heavily cut salaries indicates that the players have accepted the situation and will, with a few exceptions, come to terms before the championship season is ready to open. The days of $5,000 and $7,000 baseball salaries have gone by and will probably never return.

Just now when pneumonia is in many places almost epidemic there comes to me the wonder why baseball players escape the dread disease so easily. In my many years as a baseball writer I have known of only three cases of pneumonia among professional ball players. Yet they are exposed to all sorts of death breeding weather while practicing in the early spring months. They often play in a cold rain till they are wet to the skin. Men reeking with perspiration sit upon the bench and cool off without a thought of catching cold.

One day last fall Tiernan of the New Yorks told me that he stood in right field through six innings in shoes which were soaked, and on ground which was so cold that his feet felt like so much ice. Why is it that the same exposure which would produce pneumonia among merchants, clerks or men of business has no such effect upon ball players? There have been many cases of typhoid fever, some of consumption and more yet of Bright's disease—all traceable to exposure to bad weather, but pneumonia seems to be helpless against the profession.

Chicago is to have a new theater soon. It will be called the Empire and will be under the management of A. H. Hart, with A. F. Leopold as treasurer. The house is expected to be ready for occupancy early in June. Popular prices will prevail.

The latest method of avoiding the amateur bicycle racing rule is for the racing man to hire himself to a manufacturer as a traveling salesman. His salary depends on how fast he can "travel."

A GREAT RELAY FOOT RACE.

Forty Runners Will Bear a Message From New Haven to New York.

Memorial day this year will see the start and completion of the longest relay foot race ever run in this country. Forty runners will take part and bear a message from New Haven to New York, a distance of 90 miles. The race is held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and runners will participate from eight Y. M. C. A. gymnasiums in Connecticut and New York. The race was suggested by members of the

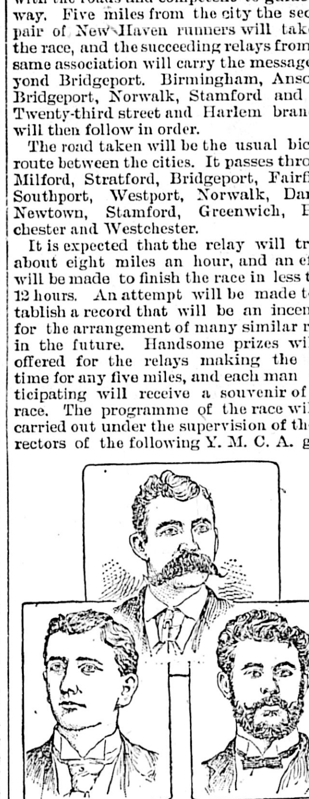

H. C. THOMPSON.
J. H. M'CURDY. F. H. CANN.

New Haven association early this year. It met with the enthusiastic approval of the runners. The Ansonia, Birmingham, Bridgeport, Norwalk, Stamford, Harlem and New York branches were at once invited to enter men for the race and aid in arranging for it. All readily consented, and by the co-operation of all these associations the details of the race have been arranged.

The relays will be established every five miles, and about 40 runners will be required to carry out the plans that have been formulated. Each association will furnish at least two relays or four men. At 5 o'clock on the morning of Memorial day the first relay will leave the Y. M. C. A. building in New Haven bearing a message and greeting to the Y. M. C. A. in New York, which will be delivered at the Harlem branch of the association in the metropolis. Each relay will be made up of two runners and a bicycle rider as pacemaker. Two runners are used in order that one may continue with the message if the other is disabled or forced to abandon the race. The bicycle rider will be one thoroughly acquainted with the roads and competent to guide the way. Five miles from the city the second pair of New Haven runners will take up the race, and the succeeding relays from the same association will carry the message beyond Bridgeport. Birmingham, Ansonia, Bridgeport, Norwalk, Stamford and the Twenty-third street and Harlem branches will then follow in order.

The road taken will be the usual bicycle route between the cities. It passes through Milford, Stratford, Bridgeport, Fairfield, Southport, Westport, Norwalk, Darien, Newtown, Stamford, Greenwich, Portchester and Westchester.

It is expected that the relay will travel about eight miles an hour, and an effort will be made to finish the race in less than 12 hours. An attempt will be made to establish a record that will be an incentive for the arrangement of many similar races in the future. Handsome prizes will be offered for the relays making the best time for any five miles, and each man participating will receive a souvenir of the race. The programme of the race will be carried out under the supervision of the directors of the following Y. M. C. A. gymnasiums: H. C. Thompson, New Haven; F. H. Cann, Bridgeport; Arthur Tennant, Ansonia; H. W. Coulson, Stamford; J. H. McCurdy, Twenty-third street; M. H. Sheridan, Birmingham, and Dr. J. Gardner Smith of the Harlem branch, New York. The race will be an association affair entirely, and many of the fastest long distance runners in this section of the country will take part.

Blind, but a Good Shot.

Connecticut possesses a sportsman who cannot see, but who nevertheless can bring down a bird on the wing with neatness and dispatch. His name is William Hill, and there are many men with perfect vision who cannot do as good work with the shotgun as he. Hill has been blind for many years, but he has always been such an enthusiastic sportsman that he would not allow his infirmity to keep him out of the woods.

WILLIAM HILL.

His first shooting was at random whenever he heard a partridge rise from the bushes with a whir and fly away, but his acute ears soon became able to locate the direction of the bird's flight, and he would fire ahead of the point at which he believed the bird to be. After considerable practice he became so expert that nearly every shot told, and now when he goes hunting he always takes home a large string of birds if they are plentiful in the woods.

William Morris and Sydney Armstrong will head one of Charles Frohman's road troupes, playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me," next season. Their places in the Frohman stock at the Empire theater, New York city, will be filled by Henry Miller and Viola Allen.

Mrs. Jennie Kimball has closed a contract with Barney Fagan for the World's fair engagement of Corinne at the Alhambra, Chicago. Mr. Fagan is to produce all his latest novelties in the several productions to be put on during the expected run of six months.

COAST CROP REPORT.

Late Season, Unusually Wet Weather—Walla Walla and Columbia Valley Prospects.

(Seattle Press-Times.)

Local reports from the valleys tributary to the Sound tell of inactivity, owing to the weather. The work of plowing the meadows general everywhere stopped with the rain. Advices from all the grain-growing sections of Oregon and Washington show that the season is at least three weeks later than the average, though the prospects for good crops are excellent. The acreage in almost every grain-growing county will be increased over last season. In the Willamette valley the fall-sown grain, of which there is a much larger acreage than usual, is in a fine condition. Although the late rains have retarded spring seeding, it is believed the total acreage of the fall and spring grain will be ten per cent. greater than last year. Fruits of all kinds are backward, owing to the cold weather. In eastern Oregon some of the fall-sown grain was frozen out, but it has mostly been replanted. The spring crop will be very large. The soil is in excellent condition, owing to the heavy fall of snow last winter and the late rains.

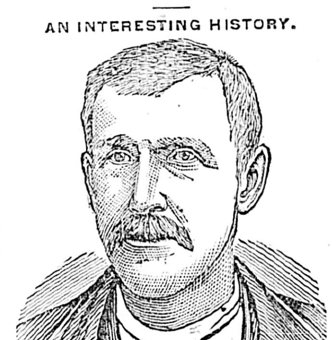

Although seeding about the Spokane section has been greatly retarded by the backward spring, the outlook has not been better in years. The ground is moistened to an unparalleled depth, and experience has shown that this is an almost infallible indication of an excellent harvest. The acreage this year will not show a great increase over last season, owing to a tendency to do more summer fallowing, but the yield is almost certain to show a heavy gain. The prospects for fruit are not so encouraging. It is feared that the peach and apricot crops will be an almost total failure. Hardier fruits and small fruits, however, will do well. The prospects for crops in Walla Walla county are flattering. The late rains wet the ground deeper than for many years. Fall sown grain is doing finely. The acreage sown this year is about 30 per cent. greater than last year. The increase of the acreage at the Dalles is reported as 10 to 15 per cent. The ground is well soaked and the outlook in this section for a large harvest is first-class. In Klickitat valley, Wash., the season is more backward and seeding is late. Winter wheat has a fine setting and is growing well in all sections. Fully one-third of the fall wheat has been frozen out in Umatilla county and is now being reseeded by farmers, putting more than one-half of the entire acreage in spring-sown grain.

"The peach crop of eastern Washington will be a total failure this year," said Horticultural Commissioner D. M. Jesse, of Walla Walla, and Henry M. Spalding, of Almota. "The same may be said of the nectarines, early plums and sweet cherries, and even many young apple trees suffered by the severe cold of last winter. The damage was not due so much to the cold as it was to the fact that we had some very warm weather in January, which started the sap in the trees, this being followed by the very cold weather of February. On an average the peach crop around Walla Walla is a failure every other year, but all other fruits are regular bearers, and are not so sensitive to the weather." D. M. Jesse, of Walla Walla, state inspector of fruit pests for the Horticultural Society, says: "The past winter has been a disastrous one for the fruit crop. Peaches, prunes, cherries and apricots have all been destroyed, and there will be no crop about Walla Walla. Apples and pears will be a good crop. I have been in the fruit-raising business twenty-seven years in Walla Walla, and this year is the first one that I have witnessed the destruction of the prune crop, though I have seen the apple crop destroyed twice from severe weather. The reports from Vancouver are that the prune crop there has also been destroyed."

THREW AWAY HIS CRUTCHES

AFTER YEARS OF TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

STATEMENT OF MR. WM. McNEE.

For eight years I was troubled with a sore on my leg which resulted from having it broken. The doctors kept me in bed five months trying to heal it up, but all to no purpose. I tried all sorts of salves, liniments, ointments, pills and blood medicines but with no benefit. In 1883 it became so bad that I had to sit on one chair and keep my foot on another for four months. I could not put my foot on the ground or the blood would rush out in a stream and my leg swelled to twice its natural size.

ELEVEN RUNNING SORES

developed on it which reduced me to a living skeleton (I lost 70 lbs. in four months). Friends advised me to go to the Hospital; but I would not, for I knew they would take my leg off. The doctor then wanted to split it open and scrape the bone, but I was too weak to stand the operation. One old lady said it had turned to black erysipelas and could never be cured. I had never heard of Burdock Blood Bitters then, but I read of a minister, Rev. Mr. Stout, who had been cured of a severe abscess on the neck by B.B.B., after medical aid had failed, and I thought I would try it. I washed the leg with the Bitters and took them according to directions. After using one bottle I could walk on crutches, after taking three, I threw away the crutches, took a scythe and went to work in the field. At the end of the sixth bottle my leg was entirely healed up; pieces of loose bone had worked out of it and the cords came back to their natural places again. That was nine years ago and it has never broken out since. I can walk five miles to-day as fast as anyone, and all this I owe to B. B. B., which certainly saved my leg, if not my life. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Give B. B. B. a trial, it will cure you as it did me.

Yours truly,
WM. McNEE, St. Ives P.O., Ont.

Mr. F. C. Sanderson, the druggist of St. Marys, Ont., certifies to the entire truthfulness of the remarkable statement made by Mr. McNee and says that several other wonderful cures have been made in his district.

Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was literally untrue, and he regretted to say that it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13 1864.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE IS THE BEST AND MOST CERTAIN REMEDY IN COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, NEURALGIA RHEUMATISM, &c.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE —The Right Hon. Earl RUSSELL communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, Dec. 31, 1864.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not "supply a want and fill a place."—Medical Times, Jan. 12, 1885.

AN ASSAULT-AT-ARMS.

The Completion of the Fine New Drill Hall Stirring Up the Volunteers.

Col. Prior Incites His Brigade With Prospects of a Bright Future.

Military exercises, such as are associated with a school-of-arms, will be a prevailing pastime in this city for the next few months, the Victoria batteries of the Garrison Artillery having last night formally decided to at once commence preparations for a grand military entertainment, with which they will inaugurate their commodious quarters at the new drill hall. The meeting was a large one, the room in the Armory building being well filled, and the attendance including besides Lieut.-Col. Prior, M. P., nearly all the officers of the Brigade, and a large representation of the other ranks. Lieut. Ross Monro occupied the chair, the meeting being in connection with the school-of-arms, and called upon the Colonel for an address.

Lt.-Col. Prior thought there could be no two opinions as to the desirability of opening the drill hall with a first-class entertainment by the artillerymen, to show the people that there are in the Victoria batteries the right sort of young fellows, with some enterprise and go in them. Anything in the shape of a well got up tournament of fencing, boxing, sword and bayonet practice and military exercises generally, he felt could be made a success, and would put the corps before the public in such a light that new members could not fail to be attracted. (Applause.) The forts at Esquimalt would soon be gone on with now, and though the Imperial Government would build the works and equip them with the most modern guns, the force of Royal Marine Artillery or Engineers who would be stationed here in place of C Battery, would be only enough to look after the twenty or thirty guns, and the Imperial Government would look to the Canadian artillerymen to do any fighting that might be necessary. There would therefore be three batteries totalling 330 men in Victoria, (applause), in place of the three small batteries now here, and it would be the duty of every present member to do his best to bring in a good class of recruits. He wanted it generally understood that as soon as they got into their new quarters they would form a kind of sociable club amongst themselves. He wanted to see established a place such as would be a pleasant rendezvous for all members, where they could play games, sing songs, practice on gymnasium apparatus, or otherwise employ themselves, instead of knocking about town spending their money without having anything to show for it. They would all get to know one another soon; he would know all his men and they would all know him, and they should get along just like one big family. He hoped to see the day soon when it would be considered quite the thing to be a member of the volunteers here. The proposed entertainment would help to give an impetus to the military movement, and therefore it would have his heartiest support. (Applause.)

The chairman then outlined the nature of the programme which had been in contemplation. This included gymnastics on the parallel bars, dumbbells, physical drill to music, bayonet exercise, sword vs. bayonet, foils, gun drill; and, if arrangements can be made to allow horses into the hall, there might be contests between cavalry and bayonet and swordsmen. He felt that the affair could be made a success if only those who made a beginning would see the thing through.

On motion of Sergt. Anderson, seconded by Sergt. Hibben, the meeting formally resolved to proceed with the proposed assault-at-arms. The names of those present were taken down by Staff-Sergt. McConnan, who acted as secretary of the meeting, and with only one or two exceptions all promised to assist in getting up the affair. The general committee was then named: Lieut.-Col. Holmes, D.A.G.; Lieut.-Col. Prior, M.P.; Capts. Smallfield, Irving and Quinlaw, Lieuts Monro and Sargison, Staff-Sergt. H. G. McConnan, Sergt.-Majors Hibben, D. B. McConnan and Blanchard, Sergts. Anderson and Francis, Corps. Hutcheson, Hunter, Twiss and Thomas, Gunners Winsby, Hibben, Langley, Taylor, Scott, Sangster, Grant, Braund, Middleton, Roberts and Henshall.

It was unanimously resolved that Mr. John St. Clair be appointed Instructor. Mr. St. Clair being called on thanked the meeting for the confidence placed in him, and said he felt sure there was the material there to make the affair a success.

It was decided to meet for general practice at the Market hall each Tuesday evening for a few weeks, after which the special classes for the different events will be told off and suitable meeting arrangements will be made. All other drill will be off while preparation is being made for the entertainment, and it is expected that every member of the batteries will assist.

CUSTOMS CORRUPTION.

Serious Charges Affecting the Revenue Service at the Port of New York.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Dry Goods Chronicle makes a serious charge of corruption on a large scale in the revenue service. The general charge is: First—That there exists in the appraiser's office of New York a combination of officials acting in collusion with importers to defraud the government by undervaluing imported merchandise. Second—that the active instruments of corruption, namely, certain examiners in the appraiser's office, are protected and supported by higher officials. The third charge is that this protection and support is extended by the superior officials to their subordinates in the full knowledge of their dishonesty and corruption. In support of its three general charges the Dry Goods Chronicle makes a dozen specific charges, accompanying them with letters, figures and statements. The gist of these charges is that a prominent silk importing firm, with the connivance of customs officials, has systematically for a number of years profited by the extensive undervaluations.

Seamen's Trouble in Cardiff.

CARDIFF, April 14.—It is stated that the crews of seven vessels in the Barry docks have been granted an increase in wages. The Union sailors are jubilant over the reported victory. Several sharp scuffles occurred to-day between "blacklegs" and strikers, the former being roughly handled.

BOUND TO RULE.

The Young King of Servia Dismisses the Regents and Assumes Full Control of Affairs.

BELGRADE, April 14.—The details of the Servian coup d'etat were carried out with remarkable swiftness and simplicity. The regents and the cabinet ministers responded to an invitation to dine in the old palace last evening. Eight were seated at dinner, the King presiding. After the third course the King rose and said to the regents: "Gentlemen—For four years you, in my name, have administered the kingly power. I thank you heartily for the trouble you have taken. I now feel able to administer the power myself, and will exercise it from this moment. I beg you, therefore, immediately to hand me your resignations." M. Ristics replied that he could not and would not comply with the King's request, which was contrary to the constitution. The King thereupon left the room and sent an aide de camp to demand the resignations of the ministers. As they all remained obdurate, he ordered them to leave the old palace and go to the new palace to pass the night. In the morning they were conveyed to their residences under guard. To-night the King's assumation of power was celebrated with a torch light procession and general illumination.

When King Alexander announced the dismissal of the regents and ministers, Regent Belimarkovich rushed up to the King and violently protested against the King's action. M. Tohirich, the King's aide, interfered, and a violent passage-at-arms ensued between them and the officers. M. Dokitch, the new Prime Minister, was King Alexander's tutor.

VIENNA, April 14.—The Neue Freie Presse expresses confidence that the Servian coup d'etat will have no serious consequences. Austria, it is said, has no reason to disapprove the action of the young king, who was influenced by his parents and not by Russia.

BUDA PESTH, April 14.—Ex-King Milan passed through this city this afternoon en route to Belgrade.

LONDON, April 14.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says the wording of King Alexander's proclamation is quite in the style of ex-King Milan, and the fact that the army supported the coup d'etat affords further proof of Milan's prompting. Alexander, the military having always been loyal to the ex-King. There is good reason to regard the coup d'etat as a salutary issue from a critical and dangerous situation. The regents having interpreted the constitution in an arbitrary sense by turning the elections in favor of the Liberals. There is no doubt that the country was rapidly drifting into civil war.

FROM SEATTLE.

To Take Part in the Alaskan Boundary Survey—Collector Wasson and Chinese Certificates.

PORT TOWNSEND, April 14—(Special)—Homer P. Retter and A. L. Baldwin, Government civil engineers, arrived from Washington City this evening to await the arrival of the U.S.S. Patterson from San Francisco. They will then proceed North to survey the Alaska and British Columbia boundary. Four other engineers will arrive to-morrow and the party will be organized under the leadership of J. M. McGrath, the well-known Alaska Government explorer. He will leave for Yakitut where work will be commenced. This work has been carried on for several years jointly by the American and Canadian Governments. The surveys are very important as they will determine which country has jurisdiction over some very valuable mining claims now being operated under Canadian jurisdiction.

Collector Wasson said, this evening, with reference to the charges of the San Francisco Chronicle implicating him and his officers with the Portland smuggling rings, that he had never admitted a single Chinese in this district without first advising with the department and personally investigating the merits of the application. He has kept a special record of the arrivals and departures of all the Chinese of this district and all who have been permitted to enter from foreign territory. Of this number more than four-fifths comprise bona fide Chinese merchants, legitimately engaged in mercantile business in various cities of the Northwest. The same record shows that more than 400 Chinese merchants left the district during the same period, and that a large majority of the arrivals are the same Chinese who left temporarily. In addition, the collector has refused a landing to about 150 Chinese, and has deported over 100 to China. Special Inspector Noyes never conferred or advised with Mr. Wasson about Chinese smuggling. Mr. Wasson says it is in accordance with instructions from the department to ignore Chinese certificates, and in each instance personally to investigate the merits of each applicant. He declined to accept the certicatos of thirty-two Chinese who arrived from China. His record shows that he disregarded their alleged certificates and compelled the applicants to furnish other proof to warrant their landing in the United States. Another noteworthy incident in this alleged expose is that Noyes is a Democrat who has held the position ever since Cleveland's first administration. The article in the Chronicle is regarded locally as gotten up for political effect. Several days ago Mr. Wasson wired the Treasury department asking for a complete investigation of his administration.

LONDON, April 14.—The danger of the failure of the dock laborers' strike at Hull threatens to lead to a general strike of members of the dock laborers' union at all the principal ports in the United Kingdom. There is a general belief that the Shippers' Federation will not grant the demands and will make a test of strength with the union.

THE BOUNDARY COMMISSION.

Professor King and the Canadian Party Reach Victoria Ready for Business.

They Will Here Be Joined by Professor Mendenhall and the American Staff.

Professor W. F. King, chief astronomer of the Interior Department, who has been chosen British Commissioner to determine the boundary line between the Dominion and Alaska, reached Victoria with his chief assistants, O. J. Klotz and A. H. Warden, of Ottawa, and H. H. Robertson, D. L. S., of Quebec, by the Islander last evening. These heads of the Canadian party are guests at the Driard, where they will remain, until joined, in the course of a day or two, by Professor Mendenhall, the United States Commissioner, also accompanied by a large staff. Professor King's party numbers about one hundred men, including representatives of the Canadian geological survey.

Their preliminary arrangements have been fully described in despatches to the COLONIST. It is expected that two of the steamers selected by the American Government for the Behring Sea patrol will convey Professor Mendenhall's company to the scene of operations, the Canadian party having the Quadra and, in all probability, H.M.S. Garnet placed at their disposal.

The two chiefs before leaving Victoria will complete the plan of their campaign, which will settle finally, and it is hoped satisfactorily to both countries, a question for which a solution has long been desired. At present the mountains forming the indefinite northern boundary are a practically unexplored wilderness of rocky peaks, but any day may disclose in them vast mineral wealth, and the question of possession would then be an important one, and a more difficult one to decide than at present.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

It Is Not a Political Measure and Is in no Way Secondary to the Panama Project.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The officers of the Nicaragua Canal company deny emphatically the statement made by Count Kerartry that their scheme is purely a political measure, and secondary in proportions to the Panama Canal, in the interest of which the Count is now in this country. Warner Miller was seen to-day. He said: "As a matter of fact the Panama and Nicaragua Canal schemes are not to be mentioned in the same category. The former has been proved impracticable, if not impossible, while the latter has been shown to be beyond all doubt the only practicable method of opening a highway for ships from the Atlantic and Pacific. "The Count's claims are so at variance with the facts in the matter that I do not consider it worth my while to enter into any controversy with him. The Panama idea is a foreign one, and in spite of its pretentions was never able to interest one dollar of American capital. The Nicaragua scheme, on the other hand, is purely an American enterprise, and has been declared by the foremost civil, mining and military engineers as the only route by which communication can be opened between the two great oceans. Generals Grant, Sherman and McClellan, who spent years studying this matter, said the Nicaragua canal was the only realizable one."

No Wonder

That People Speak Well of

HOOD'S

Sarsaparilla

Mr. R. J. Brundage of Norwalk, Ct., of the firm of Buxton & Brundage, expressmen, 159 Main Street, writes his experience below:

"For a long time I have been troubled with a weak stomach, followed by

Indigestion and Dyspepsia

A short time ago I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and took three or four bottles. Result, I have not felt so well all over for years. My food seldom troubles me now. My sister, who was troubled about the same way as myself, took Hood's Sarsaparilla with very pleasing results. I do not wonder that patrons all along the line speak so well of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Don't see how they can help it." R. J. BRUNDAGE, Norwalk, Ct.

Mr. B. H. Rose

Is well known in Rochester, N. Y., as head of the firm of Rose & Eddy, wholesale and retail dealers in general hardware and house furnishing goods, at 137 East Main Street. The statement of so prominent a man must

Command Attention

"I send this unsolicited as I feel to congratulate myself that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla. Six months ago my digestion was very bad, and I had almost a case of

Chronic Dyspepsia

I was also broken down by over-work, so that I could not sleep nights. My stomach is now perfect, my nerves in excellent shape, and I have gained 10 pounds in 6 months. For all this benefit my gratitude is due Hood's Sarsaparilla. Accept my best wishes for the best medicine in the land." B. H. ROSE, of Rose & Eddy, Rochester, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
